

1076

Seljuk Turks seize Jerusalem

German nobles and prelates
turn against Henry IV.

1076

A liberal arts teacher called Domerius found a copy of the
"Digest" of Justinian but most probably in the library of the Royal Law School in Ravenna.

1076

The Emperor Henry IV was excommunicated.

The Conquest of Jerusalem by the Seljuk Turks led to the Crusades

1076-1122

The civil war (1076-1122) was a turning point in German history: the monarchy emerged successful but its position was permanently weakened.